The role description

The role description contains information about the job responsibilities and what the panel will look for in the selection process.

Key elements to consider when preparing a written application statement are:

Key responsibilities – this is focused on the main duties the role undertakes. Take the time to carefully read the ‘about the role’ and ‘key responsibilities’ sections so you develop a good understanding of what would be required to perform the role.

Are you the right person for the job? – this section describes the competencies the recruitment panel will be looking for in the selection process. The information used in this section has been developed using the Public Service Commission’s ‘Leadership Competencies for Queensland’ and adapted to the work of the Office.

Application format

Prepare your application carefully and respond to the requirements set out in ‘Interested in applying’. This may vary between roles. The role description will set out what is required. In all cases, your application should demonstrate good readability and professional standards. This includes the use of 10~12pt size font (Arial or Calibri as a guide) and appropriate page margins.

The selection process

The basis of all appointments is merit. The successful applicant will be the most meritorious applicant. To assist in determining this, a number of selection techniques may be used, such as the requirement of a written application, an interview, ability tests, reference checks and individual or group exercises.

The application is the initial stage of assessment in the selection process. Applicants will generally be short-listed for an interview based on how well they meet the key capabilities for the position as detailed in the role description.

Applicants who are invited to interview need to provide certified documentary evidence to the panel to allow for further consideration of their application of their:

- qualifications
- citizenship/visa status
- driver’s licence (for certain positions).

All applications will be treated in confidence. Applications will remain current for a period of 12 months and may be considered for other vacancies, including an alternative employment basis (temporary, full time or part time).

Employment screening and referee checks

Pre-employment screening will be undertaken for the recommended applicant/s.

Shortlisted applicants will be asked to complete:

- a disclosure of any serious disciplinary action
- an ‘authority to conduct pre-employment checks’ form to provide consent to pre-employment screening.

Screening may include a criminal history check and checking of identity, educational qualifications, employment history and professional memberships. It may also include other relevant research such as internet searches and searches of social media applications.

A criminal conviction or charge will not automatically exclude an applicant from consideration for appointment.

Referee checks are an integral part of the selection process. Referee checks may be undertaken to verify the claims made by you in relation to the assessment criteria and to gather further information in relation to an applicant's work performance. At any time during the selection process the panel may contact nominated referees to verify the information provided.

Where selection panels are made aware of adverse information about an applicant and that information is taken into account by the panel such that it adversely affects the proposed selection outcome, the information must be communicated to the applicant who must be given the opportunity to respond. Any response from the applicant must be documented and considered by the panel ahead of making their final recommendation.

Seeking feedback on the selection outcome

All applicants will be informed by email of the outcome of the selection process once the selection process has been finalised. Feedback on applications or interviews can be coordinated through the chairperson of the selection panel. Feedback is available to all applicants upon request and is based on an assessment of the applicant's merit against the assessment criteria.

Probation

Probationary periods may apply to permanent employees.

Driver's licence

Where the possession of a driver's licence is required for a role, it will be clearly stated in the role description.

Acceptable driver's licences fall into the following categories:

- 'O' (open) or 'P2' (green P plate), and
- 'C' (manual) or 'CA' (automatic) class licence.

Please note that 'P1' (Red P plate) licence holders are not eligible as the restrictions of the provisional licence may impact their capacity to carry out the requirements of the role.

Lobbyist disclosure

In accordance with the whole-of-Government policy on Disclosure of Previous Employment as a Lobbyist, all newly appointed employees to the Office must disclose any employment as a lobbyist in the previous two years. This must be done within one month of commencement.

Appealing an appointment

If a temporary or permanent employee of the Office of the Queensland Ombudsman believes he/she has genuine grounds for a complaint arising from the application of the Recruitment and selection policy and guidelines, the employee may lodge a complaint, in accordance with the Office's Managing employee complaints policy or Appeals policy and procedure.

External applicants are not able to appeal an appointment. If you have a complaint about the recruitment process, please email jobs@ombudsman.qld.gov.au.

Access to information

All information submitted by an applicant for a vacancy is subject to both the Right to Information Act 2009 and the Information Privacy Act 2009. As a result, information submitted by any applicant may be subject to release under the relevant Act if requested. Any personal information will not be disclosed without prior consultation with the parties affected by the access application.

Enquiries with respect to the above Acts or their effect on information provided in your application should be directed to the RTI/Privacy Co-ordinator, Office of the Queensland Ombudsman on (07) 3005 7000.
